Called Mr. Felton, explaining how the matter was turned over to Mr. Warner since the Space Council did not keep such information and advising that while Kasygin had attended lower level technical schools, he does not have an educational scientific background, and that we would send him an unclassified biographical sketch for his information. Mr. Felton thanked us for the information and the offer of the biographical report. He said that the Committee members were being questioned on what effect the change in Soviet leadership would have on the Soviet space program. Mr. Felton felt that the reply would be, "There will be no change."
